

We won't be needing you anymore.

If you were told that what could you do?

You could file a grievance and the union would be behind you.

However, things have now changed.

As of November 18, the colleges have imposed "terms and conditions". They have refused to schedule all grievances indefinitely – including 2 grievances at Algonquin.

What does that mean to you?

If you are dismissed, denied the appropriate pay scale, harassed, denied leave, etc. – your grievance would be scheduled at the sole discretion of management. We need a collective agreement – one that requires grievances be scheduled in a timely fashion.

On January 13 – give our team the mandate they need to get management back to the bargaining table and negotiate a fair collective agreement.
